Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from Address Delivered by Lord Selborne Before the Congregation of the University of the Cape of Good Hope, on Saturday, 27th 1909 I do not stand before you to-day as High Commissioner for South Africa, nor as the Governor of a neighbouring Colony. I am here as a simple graduate of one University, to whom has been accorded the great privilege of addressing the congregation of another University. I am, therefore, free to speak untrammelled by constitutional responsibility. My words shall be my own and no one else's. My opinions will bind none but myself. No one else will be responsible in any degree for my words or for my opinions. That this exordium is not unnecessary I think you will agree when I tell you that I shall dare to take as my subject to-day the native question of South Africa. Speaking on the native question at Pietersburg, in the Transvaal, in July, 1906, I ventured to observe that, while I had received a good deal of correspondence on the subject, and had seen frequent pronouncements in the press upon it, there was more vehement assertion than careful reflection in what I had read, and I took that opportunity of putting a few questions to which I hoped that some answer would be given to me by one or other of my correspondents. Those questions I will now recapitulate: - 1. Taking the native as he is, a human being in a certain stage of development, is the white man prepared to say to him that there is a certain point at which that development is to be arrested? Or is the white man...
